A teacher can divide his class into two groups . Lets say A and B . Then on the board he can make two charts, one for each group. then teacher Asks students to start giving any word . Teacher writes it on the board and for the 2nd group start with the last letter in the word the 1st group gives . And so the activity goes on . Actually this evoke an spirit of challenge between them and at the same time it is a kind of brain-storm strategy to exercise their vocabulary. I hope this may be helpful to fill the remaining gap in the period.
